centleman to ask a young lady, with hom he has been acquainted only a few hours, her age? EILLAS. We should say so.

Enlistment. To the Editor of the Dispatch:

What is the shortest time you can now collect for in the United States army?, Saluda, Va.

Two years; or, should the war end sconer, that much less time.

"Somebody's Darling."

To the Editor of the Dispatch: Kindly publish the poem entitled samebody's Darling," and name of author, and oblige, W. S. L.

Well, let some Dispatch reader furnish us with a copy of the verses, and with the author's name.

How to Pronounce "Schley."

To the Editor of the Dispatch: in the columns of your paper the pronunctation of the two follow-ords: Dewey, and Schley? and oblige. Most respectfully, J. Q. H.

Dewsy is pronounced Dew-y; Schley is pronounced Sly, we believe.

The Big L

To the Editor of the Dispatch:
Admiral Dewey has been criticised for using "I" in his report of the Manila notory to the government. Is it cor-Richmond, Va. G. F.

We think "we" would have been better, but we must excuse Dewey's hurry. Basides, he has plenty of precedents for the use of "I" in the connection in which he employed it. Julius Caesar, who was s very distinguished writer and orator, as well as general, used it upon a memorable occasion. Winfield Scott, too, was stilleted to the use of "the big I."

We would republish the verses if any one would send us a copy.

Types of Cruisers. To the Editor of the Dispatch:

Can you inform me what is the differbe between an armored cruiser and steeted cruiser?

there is a certain amount of vertical sde armor at the water-line and a ceraln amount of armor protection for the runs and guns' crews; whereas a protected cruiser is one on which there is no such armor protection, but in which the schinery-that is to say, the engines and bollers-are protected by a turtle-back shaped armored deck. It might also be stated that the armored cruiser has the rmor in addition to this protective deck which the protected cruiser has

"Poquosin."

To the Editor of the Dispatch: How is "Poquosin" pronounced? It is the name of a place in Virginia, but whether it is the name of a post-office or something else I don't know. I don't find it in Lippincott's Gazetteer. place is spoken of on page 91 of Volume II. of Jefferson Davis's "Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government."

C. W. L. "Poquosin" is a river in York county, Va. More accurately, it is the name of the river and of an inlet of the Chesapeake bay, which inlet lies four or five miles directly south of the mouth of York river. Here McClellan landed some of his troops at the beginning of the Peninsula Campaign. "Poquosin" is also applied to the lower district of York county. See Whitehead's "Virginia: A Hand-Book," page 340. The word is probounced Po-ko-sin-both "o's" are pronounced long.

Value of Confederate Notes.

The Dispatch is constantly in receipt of letters of this character. All that we can do is to refer our good friends to dealers in old coins, notes, and curios. We cannot publish the names of any dealers in these columns. But this much We may say-that, as we understand the matter. Confederate notes have no value except as curiosities. The most valuable liste is that printed in New York while the Confederate capital was at Monttomery, and which bears the imprint, we think, of "the Southern Bank Note Com-

The Dream of Love.

THE DREAM OF LOVE. Swiftly glides the evening light, cam, fair maiden, hope is bright, the the silver clouds in sight, the pope is sweet and sweeter still, coughts of love our hearts doth fill.

Life without this hope would be Sad, indeed, for clouds we'd see, Pleating, floating, o'er life's sea; Dark and gloomy, they would seem But the sade below.

But the sun's bright rays will gleam. O'er life's pathway if we keep

And the dark ones bid them fleet, And the dark ones bid them fleet, if love's star our hopes will light it will make our lives grow bright.

Telephone Matters.

To the Editor of the Dispatch; 1. Can two common telephone receivers used to transmit conversations on a half-mile line, without the use of battehes, the receivers being fitted with permanent steel magnets? Should there be a complete metallic circuit?

How many dry batteries would ring on a line a half-mile in length, of No. 12 iron wire? EXPERIMENTER.

1 Yes; telephone receivers are often and work fairly well. To get the best results when transmitting the receiver should be placed close to the lips; in fact. against them. A circuit grounded at both

2. This will depend upon the total resistance of the line when finished, and the internal resistance of the battery. Ordinarily on bells made for this purpose from eight to ten cells of battery will be required.

Interest Question.

To the Editor of the Dispatch: Be kind enough to work the sum below in your Query column and oblige Yours, respectfully, STUDENT. Morrison, Va.

Jones borrows $100 for a year at 10 per cent. The interest is paid in advancetaken out of the $100. What is the rate of interest Jones really pays on the net amount that he receives from the bank? The real rate is equal to the bank rate divided by the proceeds of $1.

In this case if there are three days of grace, the interest on $1 is .1005, and the proceeds of $1 is .8995, and the real rate is .10 ÷ .8995 = .1117 or 11.117 per cent. If there are no days of grace, real rate = .10

+ .90 = 11 - per cent.

Days Away Back.

To the Editor of the Dispatch: Will you kindly answer in your Query column the following:

Upon what day of the week did the 7th of October fall in the year 1854? Upon what day of the week did the 9th of November fall in the year 1868? W. (1) $1854 \div 4 = 463$ to nearest unit.

1854 + 463 = 2317.The number of days from 1st of January to 7th of October, inclusive, is 280. 2317 + 280 = 1597 and 2597 - 14 = 2583, 2583 + 7 = 368 and 7 over, and the 7th of October, 1854, falls on Saturday, the seventh day of the week. (2) $1868 \div 4 = 467$. 1869 + 467 = 2335. The number of days from 1st of January, 1888, to 9th of November, inclusive, Pharmacy Laws.

To the Editor of the Dispatch: A desires to run a drugstore, but he is isting laws of the State of Virginia, can A stock a store and employ B to do the practical work in the store, and conduct the business in either A or B's name until A becomes a practical druggist?

By referring to section 1759, chapter 78, of the Code of Virginia, F will find all the information desired. Any one may conduct a drugstore in his own name, provided he has in charge of the said department of his store a registered phar-

From Gladstone.

To the Editor of the Dispatch: stone wrote to me regarding my book, "The Genesis of the United States After a few complimentary words, he writes: "I can assure you that no one is deadness of a worldly life, no place for them are they to whom high The Genesis of the United States." there are few functary of human his-tory which better deserve to be fully and accurately commemorated by record than the great American nation."

These words of his seem to have an especial interest to us, now that he is dead, and that our minds are turning toward an Anglo-Saxon (or English-speak ing) alliance. ALEXANDER BROWN. May 26, 1898.

The Two Estates.

(Observations of a Philosophical Friend of Ours.) "Vain, pomp, and glory of the world,

I hate you." -Cardinal Wolsey.

"Of that kind, Our rustic garden's barren, and I care To get slips of them." -Winter's Tale.

The old war of the flesh against the spirit, of the superficial against the profound, of the false against the true, of the temporal against the eternal, has been going on from the beginning. Man's five senses were given him as entrances and exits to the soul, for impressions and expressions. The soul is the man. The body is but the mortal coll, the earthly tabernacie, the vessel in which he, with his treasures, is to pass the waves of this world to the land Roanoke, Va. of everlasting rest and peace. His ways of communication with the outside world were, no doubt, at his creation, pure and clear and perfect-loyal to the Father and in absolute harmony with the work of God-in league with the beasts of the field and in peace with the very stones. He was a fit leader of the great is what a great many men and women are looking for; help against approaching baldness; help against whitening looks; help to restore the lost gloss to the hair; help against fading tresses; help for the scalp attacked by dandruff. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR offers just such help. It restores gray or faded hair to its original color, gives it length, thickness and gloss, and removes dandruff.

"My hair was rough and broken and began "Aly half was rough and broken and began to fall out. The use of but one bottle of AYER'S HARR VIGOR both checked the falling out and rendered my hair smooth, glossy and in spiendid condition. It is the finest of dress-ings."—MRE. F. L. their Law-giver and Governor and King. He was disobedient: he took the law in his own hands: he hid himself from the face of God and the light of His countenance; his eyes were darkened; his sensibilitles benumbed, and his soul shut in from the free and perfect continuation with Him for whose companionship he was made. The flesh sinned against the spirit and was condemned to death. Doubtless, at first, the flesh was made to perform its offices for the spirit as beautifully as the blossom does for the fruit, the graces and loveliness of the body a fitting covering for the soul on its way to eternity. Separation from the Father brought sin into the world and all our woes. The crime of Prometheus that brought "Macles et nova Febrium-cohors"-leanness and the new cohort of diseases-was not the prayer "Thy kingdom come: Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven"-but a taking Light with an unholy hand. learning is the knowledge that puffeth up. Ambition in any direction ever proves disastrous. The suggestion of the devil to our mother Eve was the old offence by which the Angels fell. Out of the care and protection of the ager any retail drug or chemical store, or pharmaceutical department thereof, in this State, unless he shall have in his employ and place in charge of such store pharmaceutical efforts to make himself over are pitiable department thereof, a registered pharmacist within the meaning of this chapter, who shall have the supervision and management of that part of the business withereth ere it be grown, wherewith the mower filleth not his hand, nor he that gathereth sheaves his bosom. He is, in most of his conditions, a caricature and a tragic buriesque. Read the annals of the Roman empire—the best period of the unredeemed world: Read the annals of the World, the Flesh, and the Devil from beginning-ever before us. The thoroughbred worldling is a sensualist, a skeptic, a misanthrope. Gleams of the light of manhood and truth, that break in upon his soul, first delight and inspire him and then craze him. Ideals and standards make him desperate. He e Editor of the Dispatch:

manhood, then are they to whom high thoughts have been revealed of all men most miserable. We had better be beasts that know nothing and perish-than know of excellent things and be forever deprived of them-our life corroding

The superficial, false, vain, and idle world of sense is not all of life. Merely sense it is only of the earth earthy, and not only knows and cares nothing of the light of Heaven and Eternity, but re-sents and mocks the suggestion of them. Earth and Heaven are degraded by their low pursuits: by their common use of their senses: their Heaven is iron: their earth brass. And their madness laughs at nature and truth.

But there are other human beings in this world than those that live in and upon its glare and shows and sensualities. Their city is low and in a low place.

In their low estate and poverty they enjoy Heaven. To their pure and single hearts the Great God reveals Himself: they see Him. By their meekness and patience they inherit the earth, and live peaceful and happy lives. And for their gentleness, single heartedness, honesty, and kindness, they are known as the children of God. Of this city the Lord, God Almighty and the Lamb And though this city has its place in the world, the common superficial world dares to mock and insuit it, and valuey tries to ignore its existence: but it cannot: though they gnash with their teeth at it.

This lowly, unpretending, but beautiful city, is sometimes talked of as a watered garden, watered with the dew of the morning and the gentle rains from Heaven. And in it are all manner of pleasant herbs and lovely flowers and fruit-bearing trees: nothing rank or poisonous. It is after the spirit and kind of Paradise. It is well kept as it is well watered. It is normally natural, fresh as from the hand of God. And what have the citizens of this lowly city, the children that enjoy this delightful garden, to do with the hard, dry things that hopelessly show themselves on the bar-ren heaths of this world? They have no taste, no heart, no stomach for the apples of Sodom or the grapes of Gomorrow. They do not care to make bread out of stones under Satan's auspices. They would rather be door-keeper in the house of the Lord than dwell in the tents of the ungodiy. They want no seeds nor slips of vain glory, no roots of bitterness. They plant and sow only to the spirit looking to a reaping things of everlasting life and value—of which the common-place world can have no appreciation or conception.
